"We Kissed Beneath the Moonlight," is the title of a new song. Reckless creatures, don't you know "The Heavens are telling?"

On the door of a house in an obscure street in St. Petersburg appears this sign: "Cave to let for secret societies."

Some one who has been there remarks that a young author lives in an attic because one is rarely able to live on his first story.

A Nevada editor, in response to a subscriber who grumbles that his morning paper was intolerably damp, says "that is because there is so much dew on it."

Cape May has a tribe of mosquitoes as big as hens and twice as strong, which sing airs from favorite operas.

Give a little boy a small cart to play with, and he will immediately harness his little sister and make her haul him. He will grow up to be a great and good man, and become a philanthropist.

In 1860 the following notice was placed on a Stockland church door: "For the Fits—A young woman wishes to ask the favor of thirty young men to give her one penny each, and no more, next Sunday afternoon, 21st of March. If you would please to ask as many young men to come as you can she would be happy to return thanks." The request was complied with. The pennies were exchanged for a half-crown obtained from the officiating clergyman, who happened to be a stranger. The half-crown, when made into a ring by the village blacksmith, was supposed to be a preservative from fits so long as it was worn.
